Celebrating its 60th anniversary Nor-Shipping, this year's most high-profile maritime gathering, gets underway today with future-proofing a central theme running through the week.

This year's Nor-Shipping is the largest to date, with expanded exhibition spaces and a comprehensive program of conferences and seminars.

Sidsel Norvik, director of Nor-Shipping, emphasised the event's role in fostering collaboration: "There's a strong call for an arena truly representative of our evolving business world. One that welcomes new players, new nationalities, and new sectors and segments, connecting them with established networks and partners to underpin sustainable growth".

Delegates attending the exhibition can pick up a free copy of Ship Concept 2035, Splash's brand new magazine, at the media distribution point located in the glass promenade in front of all the exhibition halls.

Rich with data, expert opinions, and forward-thinking analysis, Ship Concept 2035 serves as a resource for stakeholders navigating the maritime industry's transformation. Its blend of technical detail and strategic insight makes it essential reading for shipowners, operators, and policymakers planning for a sustainable and technologically advanced future.
